NEW BUSINESS

April Colyer, Commercial Development Manager at R.J. Corman Railroad Company, presented information concerning their development of a transload facility at 630 Chenault Road and highlighted railroad services, transloading, material sales, sustainability for moving freight, and products currently being transported from local and regional facilities. Ms. Colyer reported that Phase I would be in partnership with Washington Penn Plastics, while Phase II will open opportunities for any local or regional business that could benefit from transportation/logistics assistance provided by the transload project. She closed the meeting with questions from the board members and attendees.

At 1:03p.m., the meeting adjourned without a quorum.
